Question:

Under the "Project Phases:" section, item #3 states "Conceptual Equipment Configurations". Could you provide a sample or an explanation of the level of detail that is being requested?

Answer:

Conceptual equipment configurations would consist of one-line diagrams of major equipment layouts on facility site plans and general floorplan layouts of any added buildings, such as a stand-alone boiler facility. These configurations should include rough size estimates and depict general piping and utility runs. The configuration is NOT expected to show detailed equipment layouts, specific siting of equipment or piping runs, nor specific sizing details.

The intent of these configurations is to convey the general presence of the installation on the facility so the facility operators will be able to understand the impacts of the installation. Some of our facilities are pretty space-constrained so this configuration layout will help in future decision-making.

Question:

We understand the Technical Proposal is limited to 10 pages. According to our reading of what the quote package includes, the 10 page limitation does not include the Offer Form 1449 nor the FAR 52.212-3, Offer Representations and Certification-Commercial Items. I will appreciate your confirmation that our understanding is correct or not.

Answer:

That is correct. The SF 1449 and the Reps and Certs are not included in the 10 page limit for the technical proposal.

Question:

Can you share any budget information for this project? Is there an expected bid range?

Answer:

This will be a simplified acquisition therefore it is anticipated that offerors are expected to come in significantly below the simplified acquisition threshold of $100,000.00.
